Editorial January 2020

This Flightline is being published using a revived new process.

The old process involved using HTML code to format the newsletter, updating all the links, saving the HTML files as PDF, stitching the individual PDF files into a single PDF, then publishing the individual HTML files, index page, and PDF.

The new process is to author in MS word, save the document as one PDF, update the index page and then publish the file.

If all goes well, it should reduce the publishing workload and free up time to improve the content.

So far, there is still improvement to be made in the content output.

This is a test. If you have problems displaying the PDF, send me an e-mail and describe the problem and which browser you are using.
